

Intermediate Level

HDR (High Dynamic Resolution) is designed to present a print with a similar range of luminance as that experienced by the human eye. This is accomplished by taking three or more different shots of the subject with the camera and then combining them on one of many programs available to develop the final product.

Instructor: John Beach